

The enterprise-class agency management system for your business

As a large business, you have different challenges and goals than local independent agencies. Your technology systems should focus on solving your unique pain points.

Sagitta is built to support your specialty lines and scale with your growing business - whether you're growing organically or through acquisition

Personalized Based on Your Processes

Your technology should support your agency's internal processes and work style – not the other way around. Sagitta is built for personalization, so you can tailor it to your processes and procedures already in place, including forms, fields, and accounting. It also allows for greater flexibility at the user and agency level.

Secure Your Data

Your data is one of your most important assets – so it's imperative you secure it. With Sagitta, you can grant or restrict access to sensitive information via roles that include configuration options to view, modify, or delete data. Audit trails can track events, including login activity and significant actions performed by users, so you have a holistic view of all activity as it relates to security.

"We did an extensive search, and honestly, Vertafore had the only system that could effectively serve a 100-person agency."

Susan Stoddard,
Systems Manager, Moreton & Company
